"LION'S ROAR"

We have spent four years working, playing, and learning here at West Boylston High School. Here too, we have found inspiration, guidance, and a foundation for a better way of life.

Why do we dedicate the 1962 LION'S ROAR to you,
Mr. Charles N. LaPrade?

Because—you worked for us and with us from dawn to dark.

Because—you helped to make this year our best year.

Because—you were always there to help us when we needed you.

Because—we want to give you the most precious gift we have to offer—

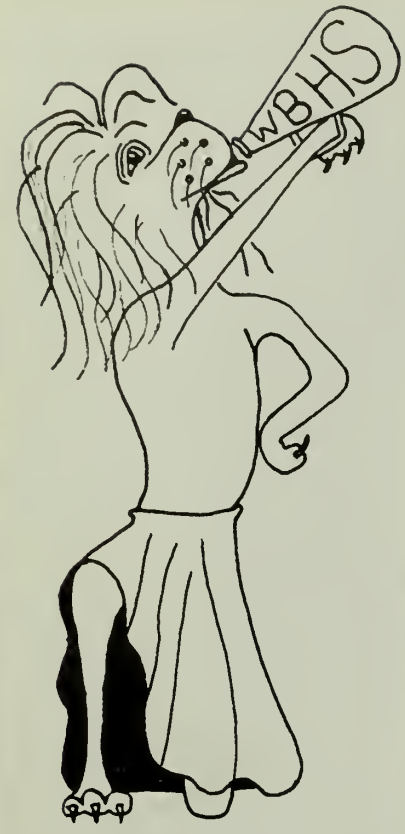
Mr. LaPrade talks with Sue Butterfield in his office.

Mr. LaPrade outlines the calendar of school events with Donna Glynn and Bob Olson.

Mr. LaPrade jokes with Doug Moore, Leith Scott, and Eddie Nadow in the hall by his office.



For the past four years, the Class of 1962 has been traveling.

Administration, parents, and faculty guided the Class of 1962, on their trip toward wisdom, understanding, and knowledge.

The journey was not easy. We met up with many challenges—meeting new friends
taking new courses
improving ourselves preparing for the future.

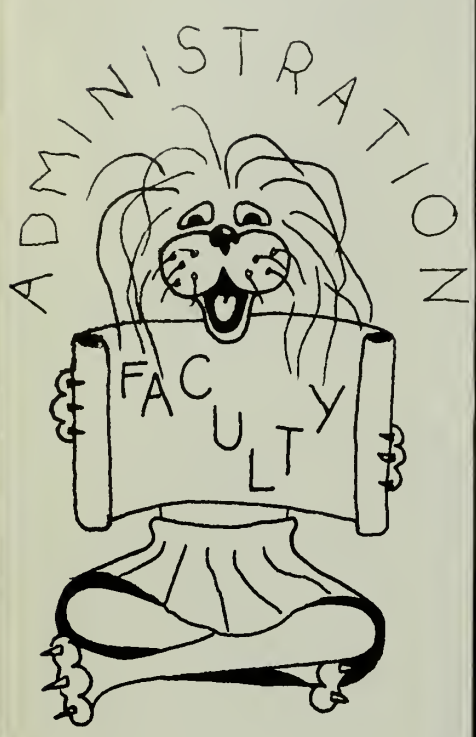
However, finally we are coming to the end of that four year journey. We will now begin a much longer trip where we shall meet the challenges of life.

The purpose of the 1962 LION'S ROAR is to remind you of your classmates— to see them again, not in person, but in photographs and in the black and white of the printed pages.

If this book will give you this consolation, we will be highly repaid for our efforts.

The Yearbook Staff



The art of arts and the science of sciences is the faculty's work.

Their dedication to our cause makes what WBHS is today and what We, the Class of 1962, will be tomorrow.

By the time you receive this yearbook, your years at the West Boylston Junior-Senior High School will be coming to a close. Certainly if a sincere attitude of helpfulness, cooperation, and friendliness on behalf of a principal are the requisites for a good student body, this senior class has set a fine example. I feel I am fortunate indeed to have been introduced to our school with the class of 1962.

May these records of your high school days, in pictures and in print, long be cherished by all of you as I know they will by me.

I sincerely hope your future will be a complete success in whatever endeavor you follow. My very best wishes are extended to you all.

Sincerely,

Charles N. LaPrade

CLASS HISTORIANS: Sue Butterfield, Howard Marriotti, Lana Silvester.

"Well, girls, the deadline is approaching and we still haven't written the class history for the yearbook."

"I know, Howie, but believe me, Lana and I have been trying to get our four years down on paper. It isn't easy."

"Sue and I just can't seem to find enough to write about. We did so little and yet so much in those four years."

"Why, it doesn't seem like four years when you look back on it."

"Remember the spring of 1958 when we found out that Boylston would be starting the ninth grade with us?"

"I sure do, Howie, I can still see the Boylston kids marching through the school on a guided tour that year. There were twenty-five girls and three boys—GENE DuCHARME, RICHARD HODGES, and GERRY CHEEVER."

"I seem to remember a current of jealousy among the West Boylston girls about that 8-1 ratio."

"Then we found out in September that the 8-1 ratio was a mistake."

"What a month that was. We numbered one hundred then. With all the new faces around, there was a lot of getting acquainted to do."

"Remember walking into the auditorium that first morning and seeing all the kids? Then Mr. Johnson, our principal, came before us and laid down the laws which we students had to follow for the rest of the year."

"Then, we began changing classes. What an experience that was. Remember how we anticipated our first high school courses?"

"For a while we were lost, but soon we easily found our way about the school. As freshmen, we managed to travel from the gym to the senior high wing by sneaking in and out of groups of upper classmen."

"I remember selecting the class officers for our freshman year. We elected DANNY THOREN to lead our class as president; SUZANNE HALKOLA as vice-president; DOTTY FLAGG as treasurer; and LINDA BROWNELL as secretary."

"Wasn't JAY LAMOUREAUX our Student Council representative that fledgling year?"

"Our social activity that year was limited to one dance. EDDIE NADOW wanted to call our dance "Rockin' Robin." CLARA FELLOWS insisted upon "The Freshman Frolic."

"What was the name of the dance?"

"The Freshman Frolic." I think ANN RACINE Made some posters for the dance."

"As I remember, it was a big success and marked us for many future triumphs in that category."

"Right from the beginning, we established ourselves as a very talented class athletically speaking. WHITEY MOORE represented us on the cross country team."

"And we had four of our members toiling for the Junior Varsity basketball team. DANNY THOREN, STEVE DOWNER, WHITEY MOORE, and WOLFGANG BAUER did us proud on the hardwood."

"The freshman spirit at the games led on to future enthusiasm. As I recall, BARBARA KYES, NANCY ERIKSON, DONNA GLYNN, and LINDA BROWNELL helped lead the cheers of the school that year."

"That sure was a good year all around. Remember algebra class? Will you ever forget the look on Mr. Kane's face when he came into the room and saw DOTTY FLAGG sitting in his chair at his desk with his sport coat and glasses on?"

"Remember Mr. Fallon's ancient history class. Some days he had PAT McAVEY at the front of the room teaching?"

"I think it was freshman year too that we had Mr. O'Connor for civics. Remember how we used to tease him because he came from the state of Vermont (Vermont has more cows than people)."

"Gee, you know what? Our first year in high school was a pretty happy one. We certainly had a lot of fun."

"Oh what a year . . . Let's cut the gab and start writing this. Otherwise, we'll never get to sophomore year."

"Summer streaked by, as usual, between our freshman and sophomore years. When we returned to the books in September, we had another new name to add to our list. SUE ANDERSEN joined us that year."

"That was the year that we came back to three days of Iowa testing."

"Later that month we elected WOLFGANG BAUER to lead our class. DONNA GLYNN was vice-president, DOTTY FLAGG was treasurer, and LINDA BROWNELL was secretary. MAUREEN MACKLIN and BOB OLSON were our Student Council Representatives."

"Our class officers led the committees to sponsor our first and last dance of sophomore year, "Korn Kernal Krawl."

"Howie, didn't you play baseball that year?"

"Yes, along with WAYNE PARKER, FLETCHER KINNE, and TED MANNING. Our class really came to a front that year in athletics. The cross country team numbered among its harriers DANNY THOREN, WOLFGANG BAUER, and FLETCHER KINNE. In Junior Varsity basketball, our class had no less than six representatives—STEVE DOWNER, EDDIE NADOW, DANNY THORN, WHITEY MOORE, WOLFGANG BAUER and BOB LANDGREN."

"Don't forget the girls. JOLYNNE KANERVA and BARB NOWAK played field hockey. KAREN HILLER and BARB also played softball and basketball."

"Know what I remember most about that year? Dissections and Julius Caesar and French and Latin II."

"Remember plane geometry? Remember the fun ULA TOBIESEN, NANCY ERIKSON, and MAUREEN MACKLIN used to have? TERRY RICH spent half the night learning postulates and geometry solutions."

"Let's forget about geometry if it makes you two happy."

"That suits me fine, but I still can't forget biology labs and fish and worms and frogs and carrots."

"I do remember all the fun I had trying to identify the parts of a frog. I don't think I ever did find its gall bladder."

"And those lines to learn from Julius Caesar. Friends, Romans, and countrymen lend . . ."

"Oh, please, spare us Lana. Do you remember that thing we had to learn for Mr. Cecchini?"

"Let's see. Gallia est omnia divisa in partes tres; unam partem incolunt Belgae, aliam Aquitani, tertiam Celtae, qui a nobis Galli . . ."

"Oh, shush."

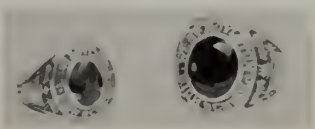
"Seemed like that year had just begun when it was all over. Ahead of us was our glorious junior year. What great expectations we had for that year."

"We decided not to change horses in midstream." We elected WOLFGANG BAUER once again as president but gave him a totally new slate of officers to work with—RONNIE UGOLINI was vice-president, STEVE BLAKE was treasurer and KAREN NYMAN was secretary."

"Didn't ULA TOBIESEN and EDDIE NADOW represent us on the Student Council?"

"We gained more new members that year as JUDY KING and DAVID KASTBERG joined our ranks."

"That certainly was a big year. It was sort of a baptism under fire for our last year."



"Remember that October day when we got our class rings?"

"That was the year we started our biggest social whirl ever (only to be topped by our senior year). On October 17, 1960, we presented our dance, "The Lion's Lua."

"We ended the year with the most beautiful prom West Boylston had ever seen, "Wonderland by Night."

"BARBARA NOWAK was chairman and was assisted by almost every junior in one capacity or another. NANCY ERIKSON had charge of refreshments, DONNA GLYNN, decorations; WAYNE PARKER, tickets and invitations; and BETTY LOU DORSEY, program. What a time that was."

"I remember all the work that went into that dance. Remember how ULA TOBIESEN made trees with apple blossoms. Didn't RAY NELSON make a bandstand? KAREN HILLER cut out silver stars for weeks. TERRY RICH wrapped twelve hula hoops in aluminum foil."

"The kids certainly worked hard. Remember all the flowers we had?"

"Oh, how could I forget?" I remember twisting crepe paper and wire into artificial flowers. Why, it took weeks of never-ending flower making at the homes of ARLENE WRIGHT, CAROLE ROCHEFORD, SUE BUTTERFIELD, PEG GRANGER, and LEITH SCOTT. At one meeting, some of the boys showed up. RAY NELSON, GERRY CHEEVER, and BOB OLSON had a terrific time playing ping pong while the girls sat industriously making flowers. Such cooperation!"

"But, all the work proved well worth it. Truly a night to remember—the gym was transferred into a Parisian paradise with colorful flower gardens and side walk cafes. Joanne Maki was chosen Queen and everyone had a terrific time."

"A lot of money necessary to hold those functions was supplied by the traditional junior class fund raising projects. The class officers sponsored a candy sale while ALICE FULLER and RAY LAWRENCE operated the concession booth at the basketball games."

"Junior year was one of the best that the school had ever seen sports-wise. The cross country team, coached by Mr. WELLER, had a perfect record of nine wins and no losses. DANNY THOREN represented us strongly on that undefeated team."

"Don't forget that we contributed three members to the Varsity basketball team. STEVE DOWNER, RAY NELSON, and DANNY THOREN provided the strong junior class contingent. WAYNE PARKER and TED MANNING provided the spark for the Junior Varsity basketball team."

"In baseball, TED MANNING lent a strong arm to the hurling department while WAYNE PARKER played a very strong shortstop."

"You're always forgetting the girls. SUZETTE DIONNE, JOLYNNE KANERVA, and BARBARA NOWAK played Hockey. KAREN HILLER and BARBARA NOWAK played basketball and softball. RUTH DEWITT, CATHY ORCIANI, and NANCY HOLT also played basketball."

"Junior year was the second year in a row that TERRY RICH represented our school in the science fair. She did a project on crystals."

"Scholastically, as juniors, we met up with many new challenges—the challenge of Algebra II, Latin III, and college chemistry; the challenges of Typing II, Shorthand I, and Bookkeeping II."

"There were other challenges too. Remember the challenge of having to learn all the questions in the little pink books so we could get our licenses."

"Will you ever forget the challenges of learning every word in our history assignments to keep up to Mr. Flagg."

"Oh, that was a year of challenges."

"That was also the year we lost our class advisor, Mr. Griffin, to Brown and our principal Mr. Johnson to Vermont. Mr. Cecchini, our Latin and Spanish teacher went on to school while Mr. McGrail left for Framingham."

"Then it was September again. For the last time the Class of 1962 came back to WBHS to begin their final year."

"In our ranks were more new faces—MYLES SMEDBERG, PAT EDMONDS, SHARON PERKINS, FRED COKER, DAVE DUGGAN, and CAROL KELLEY."

"Remember going into the auditorium that first September morning to be greeted by our new principal, Mr. Charles N. LaPrade?"

"On the third Friday in September, the Class of 1962 held their elections for class officers. After a week of campaigning, candidates for office gave short speeches in the auditorium."

"It was on Monday morning that the seniors cast their ballots in the homerooms. Later that afternoon we heard that BARBARA NOWAK was president; DANNY THOREN, vice-president; ARLENE WRIGHT, treasurer; and DOTTY FLAGG, secretary."

"Our Student Council representatives "were ULA TOBIESEN and BOB OLSON. ULA later went on to become Student Council president and to lead our Student Council as it has never been led before."

"Remember how she worked to foster school spirit and bring a PEP Club to WBHS?"

"Oh, September was busy. In addition to settling down to homework, we still had time to support the cross country team. DANNY THOREN and WAYNE PARKER helped spark the team."

"Meanwhile, ULA TOBIESEN, ARLENE WRIGHT, JOLYNNE KANERVA, SUZETTE DIONNE, CLARA FELLOWS, and BARBARA NOWAK spent their afternoons racing up and down the hockey field. NANCY HOLT was the manager of that team."

"What were you doing all this time, Lana?"

"Me? Oh I was working on the school paper, the WEBO, as editor. ALICE FULLER. SHIRLEY ALLISON, and SUE ANDERSEN were just a few of the senior girls who helped to get out the WEBO."

"A Senior Cabinet was set up that year. TERRY RICH, BETTY LOU DORSEY, SANDY JERNSTROM, JANICE BLAKE, and DOTTY FLAGG provided some of the spark for that group."

"Remember the Senior Ball?"

"I sure do. My friend JANICE BLAKE and STEVE LOVELL were co-chairmen. I remember JANICE having a fine time trying to get everything organized. ULA TOBIESEN and LINDA BROWNELL set up the decorations; PAT McAVEY planned the program; LANA SILVESTER sent out the invitations; GERRY SCHER and STANLEY SHERMAN had charge of clean-up. Look. Here's the program for the ball. SUZANNE HALKOLA designed it."

"On November 22, 1961, the Class of 1962 presented their last big social affair for the year. More than fifty Senior couples danced to the music of Perry Conte at the ball entitled, "Moonglow."

"MAUREEN MACKLIN was Queen and in her court were two other senior girls—SUSAN MAKI and PAT McAVEY."

"Remember when the Senior play cast went to Boston to see "The Lark?"

"I do because I went. Oh what a time we had. Remember coming home about two o'clock in the morning?"

"Who were the kids in the cast?"

"I've got a list right here. SANDRA JERNSTROM. HOWARD MARIOTTI, LEITH SCOTT, WAYNE PARKER, and GERRY SCHER were only a few kids in the cast."

"CLARA FELLOWS was student director in addition to MAUREEN MACKLIN and NANCY ERIKSON as student assistants. TONY TAGGERT was in charge of set production."

"On the 11th and 12th of January, the Senior Class presented their play, "Harvey" to a capacity audience. The whole play was tremendously received."

"After the play, we certainly had to start studying for those silly midyears."

"Oh, shush."

"We became pretty busy supporting all the basketball games. As worthy seniors we had to cheer on not only our classmates but the whole school."

"Weren't STEVE DOWNER AND RAY NELSON co-captains of the team?"

"Yes, and WHITEY MOORE and EDDIE NADOW and DANNY THOREN played for their school too."

"DONNA GLYNN and NANCY ERIKSON were co-captains of the cheerleaders and did a fine job of leading the cheers of the school."

"But you must remember the fact that they had plenty of support from the Seniors. I remember how some of the seniors came in with flags, lions, and most of all loud voices which they weren't afraid to use."

"Remember how BARBARA NOWAK ran around at games taking pictures, as well as, at the senior parties?"

"Oh, I don't know. MANNING did take a few too. Some of his are in the back of the 1962 LION'S ROAR."

"All too soon it was May. The seniors were beginning to count the days until graduation."

"The junior prom, finals, and the end of classes came in rapid succession."

"Then the Senior banquet, the distribution of yearbooks, Senior Class day, and graduation."

"Now we must start writing the history or we'll miss the deadline. I still don't think there is enough to write about though . . . "

THE CLASS OF 1962

WEST BOYLSTON
MASS.

CLASS WILL

We, the graduating Class of 1962, being of apparently sound mind, do bequeath the following to the insignificant successors of our sensational class.

ARTICLE I

To Mr. LaPrade, we leave great thanks for helping and guiding us through our last and most important high school year.

ARTICLE II

To the know-it-all Juniors, we leave plenty of records impossible to break and no more Senior parties to crash.

ARTICLE III

To the "All the teachers adore us," Sophomores, we leave our rule book full of hints on how to become the perfect senior class.

ARTICLE IV

To the "Tee-hee," Freshmen, we leave nothing because they think they have everything. You'll learn, kids.

ARTICLE V

To the faculty, we leave the expectation of retirement and meanwhile—good luck!

ARTICLE VI

SHIRLEY, "No, that's alright," ALLISON bestows her quiet manner on MARY HELEN, "I'm not too noisy," HENDRICKSON.

RUSSELL, "What do you think, I'm crazy or something?" ALMSTROM leaves his love for cars to KAREN, "Which part is the steering wheel?" EDWARDS.

SUSAN, "I led three lives," ANDERSEN leaves quietly hoping her mother doesn't find out everything she has done in high school.

GAIL, "I did it again," ARMSTRONG leaves her freckles to the freckleless.

WOLFGANG, "They call me 'Wolf'," BAUER leaves a monogrammed Friendly's menu to the cafeteria staff.

STEVE, "Here we go again," BLAKE severs connections with the school trying to figure out how he did it.

LINDA, "What's the second number?" BROWNELL leaves her ability to forget her locker combination—18, 0, 6.

BRUCE, "I'll say," BUCK leaves his sharp sweaters and pipe to WARREN, "This is the life," ZEPP.

LINDA, "I just can't do this," BULLENS leaves her broken typewriter in secretarial practice class to anyone unfortunate enough to inherit it.

SUE, "That 'hoodiggy,' or whatever you call it," BUTTERFIELD leaves a bottle of permanent red hair rinse to SUE, "I can't get it out," VARNER.

PHIL, "What did I do now?" CARLSON leaves his proclivity to get into and out of trouble to the whole freshman class. Divide it fairly and there'll be enough for all.

FRED, "What a day!" COKER leaves the memory of his parties.

CYNTHIA, "I guess so," COPPER leaves a little less quietly than she came.

LORISS, "That's the way it goes," COTE leaves the secret of her green tinted hair to KIM NOVAK.

SHIRLEY, "Oh shucks," DELIDDO leaves her purple sneakers to anyone who finds sneaker distinction a must.

RUTH, "I'll never tell," DEWITT leaves her saxophone abandoned.

SUZETTE, "Oh really," DIONNE leaves to continue the search for her lost contact lens.

BEV, "I'll never learn," DIPASQUALE leaves her toni kit to CARL, "I'll take mine straight," FALOVOLITA.

BETTY LOU, "I give up," DORSEY leaves the senior high corridor quiet until the arrival of next year's seniors.

STEVE, "Mr. Giddings, can I get a drink of water," DOWNER departs finally to get that drink of water.

DAVID, "I wish I knew what to say," DUGGAN leaves smiling and blushing, but definitely leaves.

RANDY, "I'm catching up," DUPUIS leaves with the hope of gaining just a few more inches.

PAT, "That's the way it goes," EDMUNDS leaves with a certain something on her finger.

NANCY, "Oh heck," ERIKSON leaves her slide rule, chemistry book, and algebra book in the nearest trash can.

CLARA, "I got a B," FELLOWS leaves her well-appreciated advice to DAVID, "I got a B?" BLAKE.

DOTTY, "Guess what." FLAGG leaves her sweet disposition to GAIL, "Don't bother me," VICKERY.

SUE, "Oh, you monster," FRANCIS leaves her quiet personality to TOM, "What, me worry?" SHELDON.

ALICE, "You're kidding," FULLER leaves her hoarse voice to some worthy horse.

DONNA, "Give me a 'W'," GLYNN leaves her amazing talent for getting black eyes to SAMMY, "I'm a big boy now," DELIDDO.

PEG, "Let's have a party," GRANGER leaves the senior class grateful for the many 'swingin' affairs.

SUZANNE, "Oh yeah," HALKOLA leaves to become a nurse. Say hello to Dr. Kildare for us.

ANN, "Golly, all this homework," HAMILTON leaves her twinkling brown eyes to any other girl who wants to shine.

SHERRY, "Oh mud," HAMILTON leaves her optimistic attitude to DOUG, "But suppose . . ." FULLER.

BOB, "How are ya," HARRIS leaves a long list of lifetime friends.

KAREN, "Oh crud," HILLER leaves but only after going down to the gym for a final lay-up shot.

RICHARD, "Egads," HODGES leaves his flashy Hawaiian shirts to Mr. Wilbur.

NANCY, "Why I'll be darned," HOLT leaves her ability to kill time to PAT NORTON, who does a pretty good job with a basketball.

SANDRA, "I'm really shy," JERNSTROM leaves for Hollywood.

MARILYN, "Oh my goodness," JOHNSON leaves her blushing propensity to FRANCIS "I couldn't blush if I tried," CASAMASSA.

SHARON, "I guess so," JONES leaves with a record length of long fingernails.

JOLYNNE, "Oh fiddlesticks," KANERVA leaves her happy-go-lucky attitude to ALBERTA, "What am I going to do?" LONGONE.

DAVID, "Hopalong," KASTBERG leaves for Texas, the only state we will ever love.

CAROL, "Oh my gosh," KELLEY leaves with the established reputation as "the Best Doggone Thesis Writer" in the senior class. How about those 92 pages, 300 footnotes, and 45 reference books.

JUDY, "It was pretty good," KING leaves her love for US History to JIM, "Who needs it?" DURHAM.

FLETCHER, "Shucks," KINNE leaves a detailed map of Boston to next year's Senior play cast.

BARBARA, "Is that right?" KYES leaves Mrs. Stewart forever looking for that pungent smell of burning eraser.

LOUISE, "You like the Three Stooges, too!" LAGERSTROM leaves Mrs. Rogers in peace—not pieces.

BOB, "What do you say for yourself?" LANDGREN prefers to leave nothing to the Class of 1963.

RAYMOND, "It's okay," LAWRENCE leaves his place in the cafeteria line to DOUG, "I didn't cut in," RICE.

CAROLE, "Oh good," LEHMAN leaves her long hair to WENDY, "My hair feels so short," MAKI.

ED, "Moo . . ." LOGAN leaves his ability to fall asleep in class to GERRY, "I've already invented a method," CHEEVER.

MAUREEN, "I'm a Queen," MACKLIN leaves her ability to get along with the faculty to DENNIS, "I'm going to be serious now," BEAN.

SUSAN, "Did the bell ring?" MAKI leaves her ability for being late for class to PAT, "Is there a bell?" BRIGHAM.

STEVE, "Did anyone find my golf balls?" LOVELL leaves in search of all the ones he lost to PAUL, "I'll find them," DEMOGA.

TED, "Master that art," MANNING leaves his bright orange jacket and hat to Mr. Kane to match his bright orange tie.

HOWARD, "the man in the gray flannel overalls," MARIOTTI leaves with Harvey, but only after leaving the custodian staff a year's supply of spic and span.

PAT, "What are you doing?" McAVEY leaves her pile of books to LARRY, "What do I need them for?" CHEEVER.

WHITEY, "I did it again," MOORE, the boy with the burnt hole in his pocket, leaves one, slightly used and slightly tarnished, halo to some devil of a junior.

ED, "I hate to leave the Junior girls," NADOW leaves his flirtatious ways to BOB, "I can't afford to flirt," TURNER.

RAY, "Did you do your French?" NELSON leaves his cheerful "GOOD MORNING," echoing down the corridor.

BARBARA, "Did you do it?" NOWAK leaves the class baffled by her amazing amount of energy and great ability to organize.

KAREN, "Oh, well," NYMAN leaves drycleaned.

KATHY, "Oh, come on," ORCIANI leaves still organizing the majorettes.

WAYNE, "I can't help it," PARKER leaves his last two drops of Brylcream to that unruly character MIKE, "Oh cut it out," MULRYAN.

SHARON, "Just a minute," PERKINS leaves her confusing records of ticket returns for the senior play to anyone who can figure them out.

JACKIE, "You mean I made it," PICHIERRI leaves his unopened books unopened to RAYMOND, "I'll open them," FORTIN.

TERRY, "I get up at four A.M. to study," RICH leaves her love and devotion to Latin to second year students who will need it by then.

CAROLE, "Oh crumb," ROCHEFORD leaves one very dented fender.

GERRY, "You shouldn't have left us, MR. ANGHINETTI," SCHER leaves his love of the outdoors to SHARON, "I like the outdoor type," HILTON.

LEITH, "Oh No you don't," SCOTT leaves her preposterous giggle to LOUISE, "I have laryngitis," KNAPP.

CAROL, "Is Friendly's really friendly?" SCHONBECK leaves her love and devotion to Friendly's to BARBARA, "It's too friendly," TAGGERT.

STANLEY, "Get out of here," SHERMAN leaves his ideas for the reform of WBHS to JAY, "I have a few ideas of my own," LAMOUREAUX.

LANA, "I've got a deadline to meet," SILVESTER leaves with STEVE.

MYLES, "What are you up to now?" SMEDBERG leaves his relationship with Mr. Kane to FRANCIS, "Give me two more points," DACRI.

DIANE, "Who me?" SOUZA leaves her Betty Crocker Award to someone else who can boil water.

TONY, "Let's go to Boston," TAGGERT leaves his artistic talent to MARTHA, "I couldn't draw a circle with a compass," MARTIN.

MARY ANNE, "I didn't know that," SULLIVAN leaves her twisting ability to SHIRLEY, "Let's twist," KNOX.

DANNY, "Wait for me," THOREN leaves to catch the "nut" with the white rabbit.

ULA, "You won't believe my name," TOBIESEN leaves Mrs. Hemingway looking for her two prized dahlias.

JOHN, "How do you know?" TOBIN leaves his pessimistic attitude to any optimist who dares to confront him.

RONNIE, "That again?" UGOLINI leaves thankful he could afford classic comics. Remember those Silas Marner and Oliver Twist days?

MARSHA, "Isn't that right?" WHITE leaves a pair of tin Heads to our school—Heads Skis, that is.

ARLENE, "I had it just a minute ago," WRIGHT doesn't leave unless she can get her car in reverse.

Class Prophecy

Time: 1987
Place: Tour to Boston

Come with us; we are going on a trip into the future to check up on some old high school friends from the unpredictable Class of 1962, at West Boylston Junior Senior High School. We have heard that many of our classmates drifted to Boston after graduation, upon the advice of the celebrated author, Mr. Paul Anghinetti.

During our stay at the fabulous Kinne Hotel we were invited on a tour by the honorable Sheik, Jackie Pichierri, ruler of Shish who is visiting Boston.

With him are his wives Barbara Nowak, Shirley DeLiddo, Nancy Holt and Clara Fellows; his secretary, Ronny Ugolini; and his famous underworld bodyguards, Randy Dupuis and David Kastberg. We feel well protected if nothing else!

First we enter the lobby through the door, naturally, and approach the information desk to our right where we see none other than Shirley Allison employed as information girl. Shirley introduces us to the special guide assigned to the Sheik, Bob Landgren, who leads us to the first elevator. We remember that Bob always did like to take people for rides.

Up we go at eighty miles an hour to the twelfth floor studios, chatting meanwhile with elevator operator Marsha White. The first room we come to after leaving the elevator and Marsha, is a recording studio. Going nearer, we hear the lovely soprano voices of Louise Lagerstrom and Jolynne Kanerva singing the title tune from Broadway's Musical Hit, "Auntie Maimed" which is in its thirtieth year of success.

When we enter the room we are immediately drawn to the record album collection and begin to look through it. We aren't too surprised to see Cynthia Copper with a guitar on the cover of her first album, "Cindy Sings Calypso"; looking further we come upon another familiar face on the cool album "Jazz Interpretations of Miles Smedberg"; and in the classical section we find the new symphony, "The Unfinished Fifth" written by the old master himself, Eddie Nadow.

At the table to the rear we notice a lovely blond head bent over a large volume. The head belongs to Marilyn Johnson who is reading the "Encyclopedia of Temporary Musicians" by Fred Coker. (Fred used to sing in the shower.)

Since the Sheik didn't like music we ventured into the library and found Carol Lehman pouring over the latest (1987) "Whose What." Under "A" she had found Susan Andersen, famous for her "Catastrophe Free Corvair."

Suddenly we hear a loud crash and rush into the next room to find Phil Carlson under a pile of books on the floor. He had toppled from the ladder where he had been dusting books on the top shelf. We picked up one tiny book which is autobiography of Stanley Sherman entitled "The Woman in My Life."

Leaving this scene we walk across the hall to the main office of the book banners of Boston. Here we find the censor Suzette Dionne (we don't know whose head she censors.) The book on which she is working is "I was a Wild, Wild Child" by Douglas A. Moore. Her assistant, Sue Francis, comes bounding in with the latest paperback scandal, "My Powerful Plymouth," a book by Bob Olson.

In the corridor again, we see a door marked "Modern Dance Class" and decide to peek in. We find Nancy Erickson and Betty Lou Dorsey, coached by coordination expert Terry Rich. After talking to the girls we learn that Bruce Buck and Ray Lawrence are planning to join the ballet dancing class soon.

At this time the Sheik requested to see the Boston night life. On our way to paint the town we became conscious of an ear-piercing ring. We quickly glance over, to see, at our amazement, Richard Hodges in a Santa Claus suit vigorously ringing a little bell beside his pot.

Stopping to chat, Santa tells us about the grand opening of Parker's Penthouse, a new beatnik joint. He gave us directions and off we went with Jackie's wives behind us!

We soon reached a dark building which fitted the description Hodgy had given us. Having been warned that there would be no door, we crawled through a window. Through the dense smoke we were shocked to see Ted Manning standing on a Metrecal can reciting poetry. Behind him wandered the melodious minstrel, Ray Nelson, strumming sullenly on his guitar. The Sheik commented on the wild paintings strewn about the ceiling. Jackie's number one wife, Barbara, noticed "Taggert" scribbled in the middle of one. Number two wife, Shirley, was standing on another dismal painting, "Downer's Down-fall" by Steve.

The next thing we knew we were sitting on "Downer's Downfall."

Number three wife, Nancy, was being trampled by a huge white rabbit, six foot tall Harvey! Following the rabbit came Jerry Scher and Howard Mariotti.

Number four wife, Clara, upon seeing her old flame, screamed "Sheiky-kins"—she always called him Sheiky-kins-." The Sheik shrieked and sped from the pad. Two detectives Logan and Lovell were drawn to the scene by the commotion. He yelled, "She's had it. Number four has had it. To Donna Glynn's Good Girl's School she goes."

With the efficient police women, Pat Edmunds and Sherry Hamilton, searching for number four wife, the shook Sheik finds he must return to the hotel.

In his distress, the Sheik stumbles into the art Gallery instead of his room. Here he sees Gail Armstrong, David Dugan, and Alice Fuller, with their instructor, Kathy "Micheloangelo" Orciani. In an opposite corner a group of students are working together on a giant economy size statue of the famous Broadway star, John Tobin. They strike up a conversation with Russell Almstrom, who points out Judy King, working on the statue's head, Diane Sousa molding the arms and legs, and Loriss Cote helping here and there.

Instead of returning to the hotel room, he seeks solitude at a movie to calm his nerves! He arrives safely at Silvester's Show House, even though Killer Kyes was behind the wheel. We decided upon Pat McAvery's latest film extravaganza "I was a Teenage Mau Mau", adapted for the screen from the novel "My Seventeen Years in the Jungle" by Peg Granger. The movie is just starting as we tiptoe in and sit down. In the list of credits we notice a few familiar names: "Special Sound Effects" (Monkey screams and Hyena giggle) by Leith Scott; "Monkey's Coiffures Styled" by Alberta Saari; "Lions Skins Fitted" by Karen Nyman. The movie begins—

It's a beautiful day in the jungle and we see our star, Karen Hiller, driving her jeep recklessly over fallen coconuts and between tall palms, a gun in one hand, a compass in the other and a half-baked anchovy in her mouth. She seems to be heading for a day of hunting in the jungle. As she pulls up in her jeep beside a row of little grass huts, out comes co-star Maureen Macklin with her rifle, ready to join Karen for their dangerous trek into Bongo Bongo Land in their search for the nearly extinct yellow-bellied Mongoose.

The two drive on till they come to a small clearing in the center of which sits a little white hospital. A white figure steps through the doorway and we see the jungle's Angel of Mercy, Suzanne Halkola, R. N., who is going along to help in case the girls bag a Pigmy instead of a Mongoose. Karen starts the jeep and they zoom off into the deep, dark jungle. The scene fades and picks up again two hours later at a huge water hole. Three fashionably dressed cannibal women played by Carol Schonbeck, Susan Maki, and Ruth DeWitt are stooping over looking at a small object on the ground. We realize with horror that it's Karen's compass, which she must have dropped while passing through. So the three girls are lost alone in Cannibal territory! The women utter a few strange words which sound like "ya-ba-da-ba-do" and taking the compass, head down a narrow path. Night falls (thud) and out of the darkness come two headlights immediately followed by a jeep. It's our poor lost hunters trying to find their way home. Suddenly with wild shouts, a tribe of Bongo Bongos rush out and surround the girls. Under the charcoal we recognize the features of Wolf Bauer, Dave Chartier, and Bob Harris. With spears raised, they violently force the girls from the jeep and into Bongo Village. We fear the worst for our girls.

The scene switches to the Bongo campfire; more native women, played by Linda Bullens, Beverly Di-Pasquale, and Susan Butterfield, are gleefully boiling water in a hugh black cauldren and preparing for a feast. As the captors are dragged in and tied to stakes, the whole tribe gathers and forms a circle around them. To the wild drum beats of the official jungle drum thumper, Janice Blake, the Cannibals chant wildly while three young girls, Carol Kelly, Sandy Jernstrom, and Mary Ann Sullivan, do a native twist around the pot.

Just as the men start to close in, the detectives come in the Show House telling of the capture of number four wife, Clara, who is being held back at the hotel.

Upon entering the elevator, the elevator operator Arlene Wright, who is so flustered at seeing the Sheik in his turban, presses the emergency button by mistake. This immediately turns on the sprinkling system and we enjoy a light shower. She finally finds the right button and we travel rapidly to the fourth floor. After emerging from our dousing, we go over to the hot air vent in one wall to dry off. Seeing our predicament, a maid, Sharon Jones, brings us warm towels and warm apologies for our discomfort. Needing something to settle our nerves, we sent down for some hot coffee and Madame Rocheford's French Pastry, remembering that Carol was a cellmate—schoolmate—back in the good old days.

The coffee and pastry were delicious and after lecturing Clara sternly, the Sheik decides to send her to Glynn's Good Girl's School. After losing number four wife, he decides to return to his native land to look for a substitute. At the airport he stops in at the gift nook to buy some souvenirs of America. Going over to the gift nook we hear Linda Browncll talking with Ann Hamilton about how to care for the baby elephant Ann had just bought her Republican niece. We browse around, but because our money got all wet, we are too embarrassed to spend it.

Out on the sidewalk, finally, we button up our coats against the wind and buy a newspaper, The Boston Webo, from the corner newspaper owner, Sharon Perkins. The glaring headline "Explosion Ruins Massachusetts School" meets our eyes. Reading further, we discover that noted chemist Steve Blake, finally fulfilled his life's dream—he blew up West Boylston Jr. Sr. High School, his old Alma Mata.

With newspaper in hand, the Sheik boards his jet. Just as it taxies down the runway we hear a brave shout, "Back to Shish I go!"

TREASURER: Gail Vickery

SECRETARY: Cheryl Lutka

Our junior year has been the busiest of our high school years. It was the first time the election of officers was complete with posters, campaigns, and speeches. After the rallying died down and the ballots were cast, the officers were: Robert Turner, president; Sharon Hilton, vice president; Cheryl Lutka, secretary; Gail Vickery, treasurer; Robert Uljua and Barbara Huke, student council representatives.

The cheerleading squad for the 1961-1962 season had four junior girls: Sharon Hilton, Susan Maddocks, JoAnn Sanborn, and Barbara Taggert. The Varsity Basketball team included five juniors: Joe Kelly, Donald Roselund, Ken Quist, Ronald Robinson, and Tom Sheldon.

The Junior Prom is a big event in the junior year. This year's prom was called "Bali Hai" with a South Pacific theme. In order for the preparations to run smoothly, the class officers chose a four man "directory" which consisted of: Norma Newcomb, John Peterson, Thomas Rogers, and JoAnn Sanborn.

The junior class also has charge of the concession stand which sells candy and soft drinks during basketball games. This is traditional and helps raise money for the Junior Prom.

The junior class wishes to extend its appreciation and thanks to its advisors—Mrs. Balise, Mr. Giddings, Mr. Kane, and Mr. Smalanskas. Without their sincere interest, our junior year would never have run as smoothly as it did.

HIGH SCHOOL

I would like to take this opportunity to gratefully acknowledge a few of the many persons who have made my first year as Yearbook Advisor a very enjoyable one.

THANKS . . .

To the Advertisers, without whose support and contributions, there would be no yearbook.

To Taylor Publishing Company and their local representative, Bill Rowan, without his willing help and guidance this book would have been impossible.

To the School Committee, Administration, and Faculty for their cooperation and understanding.

To the Bushong Studio, official Class Photographer, for the many long hours spent on behalf of the LION'S ROAR.

To Mr. Paul Davis, of the Faculty, for his invaluable help on the photography end of this project.

To the Secretarial, Cafeteria, and Custodians Staffs for their patience and helpfulness.

To the Yearbook Staff, Business Staff, and especially to the Co-editors for doing the work of creating this book and making my job so much easier.

Sincerely,

Harold M Lane, Jr.
